Engine Killed a Deer. peculiar incident happened during the run of train No. 16, which arrived in Portland last night from San Fran-

While going through the wilds of Cow Creek canon about nine o'clock Thursday evening the engine struck and killed a deer that was standing in the middle of the track. The animal was evidently bilinded by the headlight and kept its place, too terrified to move. The train was stopped while the trainmen loaded the deer into the baggage car .- Portland Oregonian.

Orange a Long-Lived Tree. The orange is the longest-lived fruit tree. It begins to bear the third year it will yield abundant crops. Orange trees have been known to attain to the ripe age of 300. The orange requires less care and attention than any other fruit tree. Its early growth is rapid. In the first two years it grows more than it will in the next 50. This refers, of course, to its height and breadth alone; its fruit stems and consequently its crops increase more burned Sunday morning while lying rapidly after the first ten years.

Frills Again in Favor.

Tiny frills are again being seen on muslin and other fine-textured gowns. These were particularly noticeable at a recent fashionable function, where several dresses were worn ornamented in this fashion. One was composed of spotted net, and the skirt had no less than 15 graduated frills, each frill being edged with tiny gauze ribbon. The bodice was made in fichu style, with frills to match those on finished with frills. Lace revers, chemisette, and high collar, and deep belt of rose-tinted China ribbon gave the finishing touches.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Remarkable Coincidences.

Some remarkable coincidences are recorded in the case of two men, Wil-Ham Connolly and Patrick Cantwell. who were drowned a short time ago by the upsetting of a "float" on the Grand canal, near Tullamore, Ireland. The two men were born on the same day 36 years ago; they were baptized in the same water; they were drowned together in the Grand canal. and they have now been buried together at Rahan, King's county.

Marriage Flight of Ante.

People living along the River Stour, at Sandwich, England, were the other day treated to a wonderful sight. Suddenly the stream, the shores and the streets of the town became covered . with flying ants that seemed to be dropping like hall from the clouds. The phenomenon was a marriage flight of ants, such as always takes place in the summer. The ants thus swarming were young queens and winged males. In these marriage flights countless millions of ants take part, yet the noise of their tiny vibrating wings is scarcely as loud as the hum of a bee. So frail are their dense columns that a little puff of wind will disperse them out of sight.

Comparatively few of the myriads which come forth from their nests into the air live to enter a nest again. Practically all the males die, lonely and shelterless. The surviving queens found new communities, or, entering old nests, are at once taken care of by the workers, and start new colonies in their old nursery.

The Kitchen Sink.

The ideal sink is of porcelain with rolled edge, round corners, porcelain back and open plumbing without a crack or crevice for dirt or the everready water bug. He is ready still, but he must live in the open and not lie concealed. A white enamel sink is almost as good as the porcelain and much less expensive. Soapstone and slate are very good, and so, too, is the copper-lined sink. The great danger in the porcelain and enameled sinks is the breaking of delicate china and glass. The copper lining is much the best for that. The wooden drain boards tipping slightly toward the sink are a great convenience. Frequently rubber mats with roughened surface are placed in these to keen the dishes from slipping. There are, sides, wire and nickel-plated dish drainers, which will keep the plates separated one from another while draining.-Harper's Bazar.

A Good Antiseptic. Borie acid and boracic acid are the same. Every housekeeper should have on hand a supply of this very useut antiseptic. For burns it is unusually excellent. Drop two ounces of the boric acid crystals in a glass quart jar and fill with water. This makes a saturate solution. Take a piece of gauze of cheesecloth, saturate with the solution and lay on the burn. Apply very moist, covering with absorbent cotton and then with oil silk. This will keep moist for 12 hours, for the oiled silk will prevent evaporation. If you haven't the boric acid use a solution of bicarbonate of soda, which is nearly as good.

Awful Street Car Accident.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Defective brakes on a street car on the Brooklyn aveaue and Southern depot line early Saturday caused an accident in which W. M. Barrett was killed outright and twelve others were seriously injured, four of whom will probably die. The car plunged down a steep hill at terrific speed, dashed into a telegraph pole which ripped off one side of the platform crowded with men and women, and then turned over. Several were pinned beneath the car.

Cincinnati.-Henry Oesfeld, an actor connected with a German stock company, was badly injured by the explosion of a one-pound Hotchkiss rapid-fire gun shell in his room. Wishing to drive some nails in his room. he picked up the shell as the heaviest article at hand. The shell was so constructed as to explode when sharp contact was made with a fulminating cap attached to the nose of the ball. Oesfeld will lose one arm and probably the sight of one eye.

COPPER SAFE FROM LIGHTNING. Belief Firmly Held in Many Parts of the Country.

"This matter of superstitions is a meer thing" said the man as he care-"for even those of us who are skeptics have at least one superstitious failing, and mine is walking under ladders.

"In the country this summer I met a new one, which was firmly believed in by several farmers, and that was that a thunder storm never passed over a copper mine or copper vein. The old fellow who told me about it pointed out again and again that although black clouds might roll up and lightning flash, the storm always went around a certain spot in his farm.

"Such actions on the part of a thunder storm could mean but one thing, in the hands of kidnappers. he said-that there was a copper vein there. So sure was he of it, that he was putting by a little each year to have the spot investigated to see if there was copper enough in it to Animals Do with Little Water. There are some animals which rarely drink; for instance, the llamas, of Patagonia, and certain gazelles of the far east. A number of snakes, lizards and other reptiles live in places devoid of water. A bat of western America inhabits waterless plains. In parts of Lozere, France, there are herds of cows and goats which hardly ever drink and yet produce the milk for Roquefort cheese.

Webster's Dictionary was the standard and each list was very carefully corrected except those which fell below 8000 for it soon became clear that individual list. The work was done very carefully and accurately but the Company had no idea, at the time the offer was made, that the people would respond so generally and they were worked steadily, it was impossible to complete the examination until Sept. 29, over six months after the

Some lists contained over 50,000 words, the great majority of which were cut out. The largest lists were checked over two and in some cases three times to insure accuracy.
